The Graduate School-Newark is dedicated to the advancement of scientific and human knowledge in an environment that encourages scholarly inquiry and intellectual growth. Graduate students are expected to develop the analytical and creative skills required for original scholarship, research, and problem solving, as well as a thorough understanding of an academic discipline.

The Graduate School offers master’s programs in a broad range of subject areas. Master’s programs are offered in American studies, biology, business and science, chemistry, creative writing, computational biology, economics, English, environmental geology, environmental science, global studies, history, jazz history and research, liberal studies, physics, and political science.

Ph.D. programs are offered in American studies, behavioral and neural sciences, biology, chemistry, criminal justice, environmental science, global affairs, management, mathematical sciences, nursing, psychology, public administration and urban systems.

Degrees awarded:
Master of Arts
Master of Arts in Liberal Studies
Master of Fine Arts (creative writing)
Master of Science
Master of Arts in Teaching (history) (offered jointly with NJIT)
Ph.D.

Kyle Farmbry, acting dean